Molly C. Dwyer
Clerk of Court
U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit
95 Seventh Street
San Francisco, CA 94103-1526

Re: County of San Mateo v. Chevron Corp., No. 18-15499, consolidated with City of Imperial Beach v. Chevron Corp., No. 18-15502; County of Marin v. Chevron Corp., No. 18-15503; County of Santa Cruz v. Chevron Corp., No. 18-16376

Dear Ms. Dwyer:

Appellees are writing pursuant to Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 28(j) to notify the Court of the Ninth Circuit's decision in Wong v. Kracksmith, Inc., 764 Fed. Appx. 583 (9th Cir. 2019) (attached as Exhibit A), which was decided after the briefing in this appeal was completed. The decision is relevant to the scope of this Court's jurisdiction to review the remand order in this case.

In Wong, Judges Leavy, Bea, and N.R. Smith applied the rule established in Patel v. Del Taco, Inc., 446 F.3d 996 (9th Cir. 2006), reviewing the appellants' argument that they had properly removed a case to federal court under the civil rights removal provision, 28 U.S.C. § 1443(1), but holding that the court lacked jurisdiction to consider the propriety of removal on the basis of federal subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1441. See 764 Fed. Appx. at 584 (reviewing Section 1443(1) claims); id. ("To the extent that defendants argue that removal was proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1441, we lack jurisdiction to review the remand order.") (citing 28 U.S.C. § 1447(d) and Patel).

The decision is relevant to the jurisdictional question addressed in Appellees' Motion for Partial Dismissal (Doc. 41 at 9-13), and Appellants' claim that Patel does not constitute controlling authority in this Circuit, see Opposition to Motion for Partial Dismissal (Doc. 52 at 15-18); Appellants' Opening Br. 23-25. To the contrary, the Court's decision in Wong – including the panel's judgment that its decision did not require publication – demonstrates that the Court treats Patel as establishing the Circuit's rule regarding the scope of its appellate jurisdiction when an appellant asserts multiple grounds for removal. See 9th Cir. R. 36-2(a) (an opinion must be published if it "[e]stablishes, alters, modifies or clarifies a rule of federal law").

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Central District of California, Stephen V. Wilson, District Judge, Presiding, D.C. No. 2:17-cv-05978-SVW-E

Before: LEAVY, BEA, and N.R. SMITH, Circuit Judges.

*584 MEMORANDUM**

** This disposition is not appropriate for publication and is not precedent except as provided by Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3.

Appellants Kracksmith, Inc., and William Stocker, its attorney in this action, appeal from the district court's order remanding plaintiff's action to California state court. We have jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1291. We review de novo a district court's decision to remand a removed case. Patel v. Del Taco, Inc., 446 F.3d 996, 998 (9th Cir. 2006). We affirm.

The district court properly remanded the action to state court because appellants failed to establish that the state court could not enforce their rights. See id. at 998-99 (two-part test for removal under 28 U.S.C. § 1443(1)). Contrary to appellants' contentions, appellants have not identified a California statute or constitutional provision that purports to command the state court to ignore their federal civil rights. To the extent that defendants argue that removal was proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1441, we lack jurisdiction to review the remand order. See 28 U.S.C. § 1447(d) (court lacks jurisdiction to review the district court's remand order based on § 1441); Patel, 446 F.3d at 998.

The district court did not abuse its discretion by sua sponte awarding sanctions against Stocker under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11(b) because Stocker filed a frivolous notice of removal. See Holgate v. Baldwin, 425 F.3d 671, 675-77 (9th Cir. 2005) (standard of review and factors for imposing Rule 11 sanctions); Barber v. Miller, 146 F.3d 707, 711 (9th Cir. 1998) (Rule 11's safe harbor provision only applies where sanctions are raised through motion of a party).

The district court did not abuse its discretion by denying appellants' motion for reconsideration because appellants provided no basis for reconsideration. See Sch. Dist. No. 1J, Multnomah Cty., Or. v. ACandS, Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 1262-63 (9th Cir.1993) (setting forth standard of review and requirements for reconsideration).

We reject as without merit appellants' contentions that the district court denied them due process.

Appellants' requests for fees and costs, set forth in their opening brief, is denied.
